All you have to do is share on Facebook with your friends and.. The game has a lot of animal species in it, I will post them at a later date if you are interested in them. Please let me know in the comments. Castle never judge a book by its cover is a self published game by a indie dev called S.M.J.A.N. I have only made a game with him and this is the only game he has published and I have no ties to him. You can buy it here There are also other copies of the game available on steam, but the link to download the newest version is dead and there is no way to download it unless you have it and played it. The scenario of the game is as follows: Your ship is on a supply run for the 5th time and it is getting close to the end of the month. You think the weather will be bad and you'll have a rough landing but to your surprise the ship makes it with no major problems. Your home city is on the coast of the ocean and you need to make sure to stop there for supplies before you head home. You have no idea what will be going on in your home city and you start to get worried. You see people being chased by a group of men that are trying to take what is theirs. One person, who has a very large stature, is struggling to hold his ground against a bunch of dudes. He is trying to save a young girl from one of the guys and ends up falling to the ground. The girl is crying and screaming for help. This happens to be the moment you see the two deer in the distance, who are trying to get to the girl before she is attacked. You feel as if you are in a dream as you make a decision to do something to help the two deer. You throw a stone at the men and chase them off. You do not think that you will be able to catch the two deer but they run to you and start nuzzling your hand. They are a beautiful sight and you get very emotional. You wake up from your dream and look around and notice that the girl is not there. The girl is kidnapped and you are set on a mission to find her and bring her home. The game has 14 levels in the story. The first person you meet in the story is a young girl who you take on your quest to find her family. She does not 2d92ce491b
