"FIFA 22 features the most in-depth game engine ever created for a FIFA title," said Sepp Blatter, President of FIFA. "Its intelligent motion-capture technology allows us to create an entirely new level of player intelligence and agility. We expect FIFA 22 to provide a game-changing experience for millions of new and returning fans." "We're so excited for the first football match this year to be played in a FIFA title," added Gianni Infantino, UEFA President. "With 'HyperMotion Technology' and deep player intelligence to drive an enhanced footballing experience, I can't wait to see what EA Sports have in store." The main changes compared to FIFA 21, include: Making the Fouls and Free Kicks system more intelligent. When a foul is committed, the referee will make a much more robust decision as to whether the foul actually occurred. Players no longer have the ability to get away with fouls that should have been called. Referees are now much more in tune with the game and react with more intelligence to flag behaviours such as a back pass, off-the-ball pushing/tackling, excessive fouling, off-the-ball touches, and more. New animations for quicker decisions and reactions. Players are now animated more realistically and show greater emotion in their reactions. A wider range of celebrations has also been introduced. A dramatic new "engine reaction" system means that players' reactions when receiving a ball on the ground are much more realistic. Players' breathing and reactions to the ball have also been improved. A new look and feel to the pitch. Players can now see clearly in front of them while maintaining their concentration on the ball at all times. An improved over-the-top dribbling system. In FIFA 22, the game will react more realistically when dribbling over the top of a defender, and dribble possession is more fluid and fluidity is more precise. New goalkeeper AI system. Goalkeepers now react more realistically when balls arrive around their penalty area. They are also more alert to the run of the play. Easier to control a referee. Creating a referee in FIFA 22 is a lot more intuitive and fun than in FIFA 21. When making the referee, you can put in all of your preferred behaviours, number of cards, and line-up choices. You are also allowed to customize attributes

What's new in Fifa 22:

- The new manual football touch motion control system brings a new feeling to the game-play. Make innovative passes and precise dribble moves like never before, using manual touch.
- Synchronized Sweeps: For the first time ever, defenders now also slide under your advanced runs. You can enter sweeps when using sprint and double step, which will almost instantly bring you close the opponent.
- Zonal marking: To enhance further the distinctive Zonal marking system, in order to enjoy the feeling of controlling players with finesse like never before, Zonal marking is now also allows you to choose explicitly whether to mark an opponent from a certain angle.
- Tackle interaction: While tackling a player, right-swipe to take the ball from the player's feet, drag, and drop the ball to pass the ball.
- 3 Ways to Interact: When receiving the ball, swing it back to the left or right, or pass it cross-wise using the new "Drag and Drop" feature. This will give you the flexibility to not only adapt to your teammate's play, but adapt to the opposition.

- FIFA's innovations are just the beginning: new game modes will continue to drive further innovation in the title.
